BACKGROUND

- On September 10, 2014, Governor Brown signed into law the “Healthy Workplaces, Healthy Families Act of 2014” (“HWHFA”) (AB 1522) to provide protection to California employees to ensure, among other things, that they are able to address their own health needs and those of their families.
- This new law is effective July 1, 2015, and requires California employers to provide paid sick leave benefits to their employees.

WHAT DOES THE LAW REQUIRE?

- Displaying a poster addressing employees' rights for mandatory sick time pay; poster should be in a prominent location where employees can easily access and read the notice.
 - Providing a written notice to newly hired employees of paid sick leave rights at the time of hire.
 - Providing an accrual of sick time or paid time off for employees
 - Including part-time and temporary employees to earn at least one hour of paid leave for every 30 hours worked.
 - Alternatively, employers may provide at least 24 hours or three (3) days at the beginning of a 12-month period of paid sick leave for each eligible employee to use per year (calendar year or other designated 12-month basis).
 - Accrual begins on the first day of employment or July 1, 2015, whichever is later.
 - Allowing eligible employees to use accrued paid sick leave upon reasonable request beginning on or after the 90th day of employment. An employer may limit an employee's use of paid sick days to 24 hours or three (3) days in each year of employment.

WHAT DOES THE LAW REQUIRE? CONTINUED..

- Providing written notice to employees every payday of the amount of sick time the employee has accrued and has available for use; this may be on a pay stub or a document issued the same day as a paycheck.
 - Maintaining employment records going back three years showing hours worked, paid sick time accrued and paid sick time used.
 - HWHFA also defines certain key terms including “employer,” “employee,” and “family member,” and provides specific guidance regarding the allowable uses of accrued sick time. It is extremely important that you take the time now to understand HWHFA’s impact on your company, and to take the necessary steps to ensure appropriate compliance with this law.

HOW IS THE LAW ENFORCED?

The law assigns enforcement authority to the California Labor Commissioner, the agency that already has enforcement power over California employee wage claims, and the California Attorney General.

WHAT ARE THE FINES AND PENALTIES?

Employers that violate the law can face up to three times the unpaid sick pay due and administrative fines that vary from $50 to $4,000 per violation, depending on the nature of the violation. The law also authorizes the Labor Commissioner or the Attorney General to recover civil penalties, attorneys' fees, costs, and interest against violating employers, as well as to reinstate employees.
